

European Microscopy Congress

Manchester, United Kingdom

16th - 21st September 2012

Two questions -

Do you ever use a microscope in your work?

Can you get to Manchester in September?

If the answer is "yes" to both of these, then we think you will benefit from visiting this very special exhibition.

The scale of this year's international conference has encouraged microscope and imaging companies from around the world to put extra effort into bringing a wider range of products than ever before.

We'd hate you to miss this opportunity to visit the largest event ever held in Britain.

- FREE entry
- More than 100 exhibitors
- All major companies represented
- Physical and Life Sciences
- Light, electron and a range of other microscopies
- Free company workshops
- Free training opportunities
- Easy to get to

You may think you know which microscopes or imaging equipment are suitable for your work, but this event could make you think again. Nowhere in Europe will you be able to see such a range of today's scientific equipment. And nowhere in Europe will you be able to talk and discuss your needs with so many manufacturers.

The Congress comes to the UK only once every 30 - 40 years. Come and spend a day with us. It could make a big difference to your decision-making in the future.

Full details at www.emc2012.org.uk

