

Advances in microscope incubation systems by Indigo Scientific

Indigo Scientific are now the choice of researchers with the most demanding microscope incubation requirements.

We present the criteria for live cell analysis, the importance of precise incubation conditions and the concept around the development of our systems.

Case studies will be used to reference the kind of experiments facilitated by our equipment.

The latest developments in incubation will then be outlined to better inform researchers wanting to undertake live cell studies and a Q and A session will follow.